Bay plan calls for wider streets and new roads

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Consultants recommend that Bay St. Louis not reduce the number of railroad-street crossings currently in the city. But the city is under the gun to close four crossings soon, keeping a promise that City Council made in negotiations to buy the old CSX depot. City officials last year agreed to close the crossings at Citizen, Ballentine, St. Charles and Agnes streets as part of the depot purchase agreement. Continental Consultants, a firm that has drafted a comprehensive development plan for Bay St. Louis, balked at the idea of closing the St. Charles Street crossing, however. St. Charles is pegged in the development plan to play a major transportation role. Based on that, CSX officials agreed that St. Charles could be kept open. But CSX is insisting that the city pick a substitute crossing to close, keeping the total closings at four. City Council is expected to come up with a crossing hit list soon, perhaps taking action before the end of the year. The consultants' transportation plan is a key element in the draft of a 25-year plan for Bay St. Louis' overall development. Changes to the plan for traffic routing, and new and improved roadways, would impact the recommendations for future land development in some instances. The consultants noted that CSX's lines bisect the city, and they noted concerns by the public and the city over potential crossing closures. "The city should maintain the current number of street crossings for movement of traffic, and especially for police, fire and ambulance response time,"

Supervisors advised on sites for Kiln library

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER
Where can a new library in Kiln be built? That was the question posed to Hancock County Supervisors by library officials Thursday. Library officials and library consultant Frank Hemphill turned over to the supervisors a library study which recommended several possible locations and the approximate size of the facility needed. Hemphill told the board that the new building needed to be approximately 8,000 to 10,000 square feet in size, but is properly constructed could be as small as 6,000 to 10,000 square feet. The board voted to take the matter under advisement, but something will have to be done quickly if the system wants to apply for a 50-50 matching federal grant, which has a Feb. 1 deadline.

The county must have a site and design plans in hand before applying for the grant. "That is a challenge that I would like us to try to take," Hancock County Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise said. The present site can not be used because almost another three acres would be needed for expansion of the building and parking areas. The areas recommended by Hemphill are between the intersections of Highway 603 and Kiln-Delisle Road and north to the intersection of Highways 603 and 43. The proposed area would serve about 3,000 within a five mile area. The recommendation by Hemphill follows a request by the board analyze the situation in the county to make a determination as to what was needed in the area.

HMC employees donate

A pickup load of toys were collected from the employees of Hancock Medical Center for the Hancock County Doll & Toy Fund. The toys were collected for distribution by Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, Doll & Toy Fund chairman. Those in photo are from right, Chief Lizana; Ezell Butler, HMC toy co-chairman; Norma Richardson and J Dora Fulton, HMC toy committee. Audrey Dunn also served as the hospital's co-chairman for the toys donated by HMC's employees. (Echo staff photo by Ellis C. Cuevas)

Water system to be upgraded

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis residents should see, and smell, a significant difference in what comes out of their water faucets next month. City officials are planning to inject an inorganic phosphate product, known as Aqua Mag, into the water system beginning Jan. 17. It's supposed to take that brownish color out of the water, reducing staining caused by iron and magnesium in the water supply. It's also expected to help control corrosion of water pipes, reduce lead and copper leaching, and lower the levels of chlorine the city already adds to the water supply.

Officials say the substance assists chlorine in killing bacteria. The same treatment has been used successfully in scores of cities, including Gulfport, Waveland and Pascagoula. Its safety and effectiveness has been certified by the National Sanitation Foundation, U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, and the Mississippi State Department of Health. City Public Works Director Ronald J. Vanney said Thursday the Aqua Mag product was chosen from a number of treatment alternatives the city has had under study and discussion for a couple of years. The beige discoloration of the local water supply commonly causes complaints at City Hall. The water is perfectly safe, Vanney said, but it is unsightly, and slightly smelly as well. Aqua Mag is supposed to fix those problems, when it's injected into the three wells the city uses to supply water to area customers. Since Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Gulfport draw water from the same aquifer, local officials are confident the positive results in those cities' treated water supplies will be seen here as well. There is absolutely no danger

Chancery clerk will not run again

Necaise announces retirement

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER
It is the end of an era. After 16 years of service to the county, Mike Necaise has announced that he will not run again for his position as chancery clerk. Necaise made his announcement Thursday following the Hancock County Board of Supervisor's meeting. Necaise said that after 16 years, "it was time." Necaise plans to retire in Hancock County and spend his time fishing and raising cattle. Necaise, who won soundly in each election he was in, wants to thank the county for the support that he received throughout his tenure. "I just can't thank them enough. It seems so inadequate to just say thank you with the kind of faith and support that they have shown me throughout the years," Necaise said.

Although Necaise didn't want to elaborate on accomplishments that the county has made during his term in office, the county has made numerous improvements, including the new jail, and a tax base which has more than tripled. Necaise, before serving as Hancock County Chancery Clerk, also worked with the Bay-Waveland and Hancock County School Systems for more than 10 years.

More toys

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Anti-Christmas nonsense

"The trouble with us Americans is that we're too much in love with fetuses."

So spoke ex-Surgeon General Joycelyn Dillo Elders when the subject of abortions came up recently. Her deranged theology was in diametrical conflict with the strongest statements the Bible has to make on fetuses.

"How does this happen to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? For at the moment the sound of your greeting reached my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy" (Lk. 1: 43-44).

This was the reaction of Elizabeth to the arrival of her cousin Mary shortly after the archangel Gabriel had broken the incredible news to Mary about the conception of Jesus.

Two remarkable things are recounted here in one and the same breath. First, a six-month-old fetus reacted with jubilation to the advent of his cousin, Jesus. Secondly, Jesus, a weeks-old fetus, is recognized as Lord of the universe.

Thus, the six-month-old fetus, John the Baptist, is clearly presented as a person, and Jesus, his weeks-old fetus cousin, is not only presented as a person, but is given worship as Lord and Master of heaven and earth.

People with vapid biblical and theological backgrounds a la Joycelyn Elders are very presumptuous in making statements about the human body as if our body had no reference to the instructions left us by God in the Bible.

The abortion onslaught of these latter days is strongly reminiscent of the murderous order of King Herod aimed at liquidating the newborn King of the Jews. However, Herod killed only babies already born and up to the age of two. "A voice was heard in Ramah, sobbing and loud lamentation; Rachel weeping for her children, and she would not be consoled, since they were no more" (Mt. 2: 18).

That was another big difference. The Jewish mothers were weeping for the loss of their children at the hands of Herod, whereas pro-abortion mothers are cold and unfeeling about the extinction of their own flesh and blood.

From the very first Christmas, circumstances surrounding the birth of Jesus Christ stood in direct opposition to the procurers of abortion who are the moral progeny of vicious and heartless King Herod. And still they rationalize.

There are unbelievably brazen rationales being thrown about constantly to justify the slaughter of innocents. This indicates that little has changed since the first Christmas, except that people cloak their murderous ways more neatly.

"I came that they might have life, and have it to the full," Jesus insists (Jn. 10: 10). His entire mission on this planet was to give life, to nurture, to heal.

Herod answers that anyone's life is expendable if it gets in the way of a royal itinerary or plan. Further, in order to annihilate one life, it may become necessary to terminate the lives of some of those who happen to be in the way.

Our modern Herods concur that developing human life is not yet a human being and is therefore doubly expendable. How can they and other people responsible for a million and a half abortions a year form their lips to say, "Merry Christmas?"

to the substance, according to Vanney. Technical details concerning the product are documented in a package of information the Public Works Department has available to the public at City Hall on Second Street.

Vanney's office sent out scores of letters last week to area businesses, medical offices and beauty salons, which may have special questions on the impact of the new additive.

The city has hired a certified water service firm, Coast Chlorinator & Pump Co., Inc., to install and operate the Aqua Mag system.

the draft plan states. "If any railroad crossing closures occur, the construction or improvement of alternative routes to remaining open rail crossings must be required."

Overall, the consultants said, existing street patterns locally are influenced by the city's historic development, land subdivision, coastline, the railroad, Highway 90 and narrow rights-of-way.

Many existing major thoroughfares are "inadequate" for their current functions, the consultants said.

And they cited several drawbacks to the system: railroad crossings at grade, offset street intersections, many-pointed intersections, frequent curb cuts, inadequate sight distances, and inefficient and obsolete street layouts in some areas.

"If traffic circulation in the future is to be improved, not only must these mistakes of the past be corrected, but ... they must not be repeated," the consultants said.

The consultants' plans for upgrading traffic movement are tightly knit in many cases to the consultants' plans for future land uses in the city.

For instance, the consultants recommended creating a casino district in the area encompassing Casino Magic, and the vacant property in Cedar Point that has been proposed as an adjoining casino site.

Major changes are recommended to accommodate that district's traffic needs, and the consultants suggest the city begin acquiring rights-of-way for those projects immediately.

Under the plan, Drinkwater Road would be widened and extended to connect with Casino Magic Drive, becoming a major thoroughfare with a 100-foot right-of-way. That would provide a straight shot to Casino Magic from Highway 90.

Engman Avenue would be widened too, and serve as the main access to a proposed new casino in the Cedar Point area. Joe's Bayou Road would become another major thoroughfare, connecting with Casino Magic Drive at Engman, and extending to Green Meadow Road.

The consultants said a traffic engineering study is needed to confirm the best solutions for that area. But they suggested cul-de-sacs for several streets in the area, to eliminate impacts of casino traffic in residential areas. Those streets include Felicity, Pineway, Boardman, Thomas, Julia, Blakemore and North Beach Boulevard.

Meanwhile, the consultants suggested another new route linking the casino area and downtown: Keller and Labat Streets would hook up with Booker Street, creating a path from Highway 90 at Drinkwater to Railroad Avenue.

Consultants said that new route is a key element in moving traffic from smaller streets in the southern part of town, relieving traffic on narrow, residential streets.

And the route could be created on predominately vacant land, the consultants said. It would require redeveloping the existing fire/police complex and the city yard which is located to its rear.

To accommodate another part of the future land use plan, the consultants call for development of a major street between Blue Meadow and Dunbar, on or near Pine Street and Athletic Drive. That new route would serve expansion of school and recreation facilities.

St. Charles Street should be extended from its current terminus at the Old Spanish Trail, to cross Washington Street and connect with the new Keller/Labat Street thoroughfare. That would allow St. Charles to serve new residential development, existing industry, and a new high technology campus the consultants are suggesting be located on St. Charles.

CUENVAS QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I like to keep mentioning about the one-eyed vehicle, but I receive more comments about it than anything else I comment on.

Tuesday evening, while coming down Highway 603 from Interstate 10 to Highway 60, I noted five autos and one pickup truck with only one headlight working.

From DeMontluzin to Genin Street (only one block) I noted two autos with only one headlight operational.

It seems to be a fad in the area to drive a vehicle with only one headlight operating.

I guess the only time the driver of a vehicle cares is when both headlights are out.

Even the cool weather this past week has not dampened the spirit of a hearty group who use the Hancock County Walking Track each morning.

One can see folks using the Walking Track just about anytime of the day or night even in the winter time. Only when it is raining does the track sit idle.

It seems we walk a little faster when the temperature is down around 35, or so.

Walking at the track sure makes my day go better and for others I talk to also.

Efforts are said to be on the way for the track to be resurfaced in the future.

This will be appreciated by those who use the facility.

If you haven't gotten your Christmas shopping in as yet, you best get going. There are only six more days until Christmas.

Santa should be busy getting his reindeer ready for the long trek by now.

While shopping, do not forget to shop at home.

This is a Christmas present not too many people would even think about giving, but is ideal for our area. The City of Waveland offers this unique gift.

It is a one-year membership for use on the Garfield Ladner Memorial Fishing Pier and it costs only $12 a year for a family.

Sounds reasonable, not expensive and very unique. For further information, call 467-0184.

I hope to see you fishing on the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier.

CHRISTMAS TREE RECYCLING

During the month of December 1994, thousands of Christmas trees will be used in Hancock County, requiring a large amount of valuable landfill space. Now, thanks to Mis-issippi Power, the Chamber Beautification Committee, Sea Coast Echo, and Asplundh Tree Experts, Hancock County Board of Supervisors, you can be a part of the solution to this problem by recycling your Christmas tree.

The mulch from the recycled trees will be used throughout Hancock County for various beautification projects.

Please remove all lights, ornaments and tinsel and bring your tree to the north end of the Hancock County Civic Center parking lot on Longfellow Road form Dec. 26 through Jan. 6 and place it in the marked area.

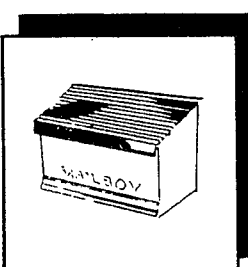

Those recycling trees may stop by the Chamber Office at 412 Hwy. 90, Suite 6 to get a crepe myrtle seedling compliments of Mississippi Power.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

USS Constitution is still Navy commissioned warship

To the Editor,
Re: Your article Bay Residents Visit Oak in Thursday's Echo

My family and I appreciated your coverage, and I think that most readers did also, except for some Navy veterans, perhaps. On page 3A there was a mix-up that is probably worthy of a published correction on behalf of the Navy.

The USS Constitution is still a U.S. Navy commissioned warship, not a U.S. Park Service museum.

The Park Service now manages a historical site around the old, very much reduced in size, Charlestown Navy Yard, neighboring Bunker Hill Monument, and perhaps other historically important locations in that neighborhood.

There is a museum dedicated to the USS Constitution, but my impression is that it is run all or in part by an affiliated organization and manages its own finances.

In these times when we hope to see our lawmakers get U.S. Government expenditures and organizations better focused and under control, the sentiments of most of my countrymen toward our national monuments continue to be strongly favorable.

The USS Constitution is still a commissioned Navy ship, not a museum or a Park Service site. It is due to the Park Service that the overall neighborhood is well kept and accessible to every visitor.

The museum and civilian workers and organizations quartered at the Navy Yard help to see that the vessel remains authentic and widely known and appreciated.

Government and private groups are working together there, and the results are gratifying to experience.

I regret any confusion that I might have caused you during our interview. Please feel free to publish this letter to get things straightened out.

Holiday warnings:

Scams about; handle your cash with care

By Susan A. Shands
Assistant Secretary of State
Securities and Business Services

week as one of your New Year's resolutions?

INVESTMENTS

Holiday bells may be ringing, but warning bells are too — investment rip-off artists are trying new techniques, and bogus charities are bolder than ever.

It's also that time of year when Mississippians review their personal finances and consider charitable donations and IRA contributions.

Because Secretary of State Dick Mulpus' Securities Division regulates investments and the people who sell them, as well as non-profit groups seeking charitable donations, we take this opportunity to pass along some sound advice:

- 1) Don't act hastily, whether it's an investment or a donation.
- 2) Don't invest or give to any group you're not thoroughly familiar with.
- 3) Don't send money to anyone who advertises an investment as "IRA approved."

CHARITABLE GIVING

Consider giving to local charities or local chapters of established national organizations. Any reputable charity should be glad to answer your inquiries about who they are and the people they serve, as well as to provide an annual report or other written information about their activities.

Particularly on national mail solicitations, ask how much of the money raised by professional fund raisers actually goes to the charity or will be spent in Mississippi. Unfortunately, we see cases, especially in the veterans and law enforcement areas, where professional fund raisers keep 90 percent of the donations.

Remember: many Mississippi charities need reliable volunteers, as well as funds. Why not volunteer to usher for a local arts group or tutor for an hour a

In the investment area, state securities administrators are warning investors to beware of promoters using slick 20-30 minute "infomercials" offering investments as "IRA approved." There is no such thing; the IRS does not review IRA investments.

More than 60 Mississippians have invested in 20 wireless cable firms whose tv infomercials advertised them as "IRA-approved." Several of the firms are having financial difficulties, and the fate of those investments is unsure.

While legitimate wireless cable investments exist, investors should investigate the risks involved in high-technology.

If a promoter's package contains documents to "roll-over" an IRA from another entity, no not invest. IRA funds should be kept by a pension fund administrator, such as a bank, trust department, mutual fund or securities firm.

We urge Mississippians to consult a licensed investment professional to consider their personal financial plans. Mississippi is home to many excellent brokers, investment advisors, financial planners, and bankers whom you can meet face-to-face to review your financial situation, goals and plans. They will know which companies offer investments appropriate for IRAs.

Also remember: IRA contributions for 1994 can be made up to April 15, 1995.

For more information about charities, please call us at 359-1371 and for securities registration information, 359-6364.

Happy holidays to you. We join Secretary of State Dick Mulpus in urging your New Year's resolution to be: Investigate before you invest or give.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

By Caril V. Stephens
Social Security

You can work and collect benefits at the same time

Want to "keep on truckin'" and collect Social Security benefits at the same time? You may be able to do it. If you're over 62, it's possible that you could collect partial Social Security retirement benefits while continuing to work full-time.

Partial benefits may be payable when you're employed and eligible for retirement benefits (the earliest age is 62) or widow(er)s benefits (at age 60 or older). If you're under age 70, you'll be subject to an annual earnings limit.

If your earnings exceed the limit, part of your benefits will be withheld. In 1994, the earnings limit is $8,040 if you're under age 65, $11,160 if you're 65 or older, and $14,160 if you're 70 or older. You can collect full benefits no matter how much you earn.

Here's an example of how this could work for you. Let's say you are 63 and eligible to receive $800 a month in Social Security benefits — that's $9,600 a year. You have a job that pays you $20,160, which is $12,000 over the 1994 earnings limit of $8,040. Because you earn $12,000 over the earnings limit, we would withhold $1 from your Social Security benefit for every $2 you earn over the limit.

In your case, we would withhold $6,000 of your benefits. However, you would receive $3,600 from Social Security while earning $20,040 on your job. Your total income from work and Social Security for the year would be $23,640.

Next year, if you were still working, you could be getting even more money. The annual earnings limit rises each year. Therefore, a smaller amount of your earnings would be withheld if you exceed the limit. And, because Social Security refigures benefits each year to consider additional earnings, you could get a higher benefit.

If you're at least 62 and want to find out if you can work and collect Social Security benefits at the same time, call this toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213 (between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.) to make an appointment to talk with a Social Security representative.

You can call that number at anytime to have a Request for Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement form sent to you. You'll receive your statement about four weeks after you complete the form and sent it to the Social Security address on the back.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

"bav

Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells everyone. Shake them sheets off, let the cat in, and get ready to blast off to another day in Paradise.

No need to rush today. We still have 518,400 shopping seconds left until the fat man in the red suit slithers down our soot-filled chimney.

Everyone on my shopping list has been taken care of except for my Dad and my Mary. I'm not too worried about Pa; he's fairly easy to shop for. He likes every gift he's ever received. Here's a dude who actually likes those ugly ties off the five-dollar rack. A bottle of Old Spice and a mustache comb would suit him just fine, even though he hasn't had a mustache in 20 years.

I'm getting my Pa a gift this year that he's gonna really enjoy. A care package consisting of a couple fishin' lures, a couple cans of Vienna sausages, a can or two of those slimy, greasy sardines, a package of Saltines and a couple new batteries for his remote control.

I don't have to worry about him finding out what he's getting, 'cause he lives in Missouri and he won't receive this column till after the big day.

Save a can of those sardines for my next visit, Dad! We'll catch a good game on the tube, share a couple of beverages and nibble on crackers and smelly fish. I can't wait!

Shopping for your gal is a whole 'nother deal! This requires some creative thinking and usually a lot of cash, neither of which I'm too capable of supplying.

I thought it would be really nice if I made Mary something unique just for her. Then I realized there's only three things in the world I can make (with any consistency): a paper airplane, homemade pizza and noise.

So I figured I'd get some advice from a couple of buddies on what they got their dudettes for Christmas. These dudes were talking in carats, I mean lots of 'em.

"I'm getting my gal a three-carat diamond tennis bracelet," said one friend.

"My gal's gonna get a full-length leather coat and a diamond ring," said my other pal.

To make matters worse, a good friend of Mary's, overhearing our conversation pointed out to me that Mary got me something VERY nice. This is when a small panicky feeling began creeping through my veins.

Now I'm thinking that my idea of getting her a leaf blower and a free drink coupon from the Out of Bounds Lounge is probably not in my best interest. Also, I think I'll take back for a refund that nice spatula I got her to go along with her non-stick frying pan (a former Christmas present.)

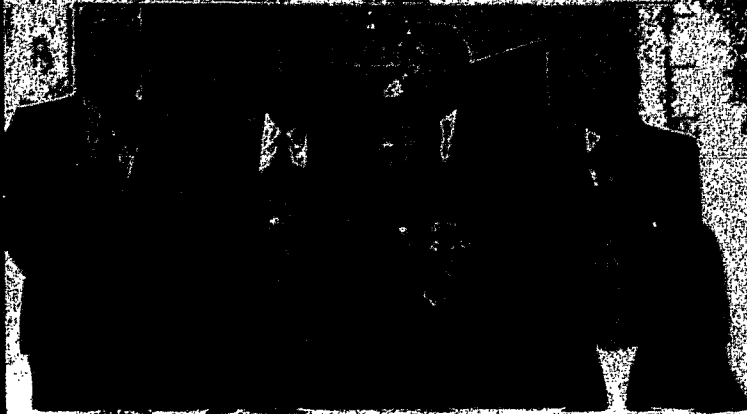

Now every time I walk in a supermarket I keep eyeing those little machines they put in the front to attract kids' eyes. I keep hoping that somebody in the factory goofed and put a real diamond ring in those nice plastic casings.

Well, Mary, I hope giving means more to you than receiving, though I doubt it seriously.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to those who think of the needy at this time of year. Peace.

BSL Little Theater to present Albee play

The Bay St. Louis Little Theater is producing Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Jan. 6-8. The production is directed by Ray Kutos and the cast includes Virginia DeRoma as Martha, Joe DeRoma as Nick, Marby Erickson as Honey and Ray Kutos as George.

The play was originally produced on Broadway in 1962 and is Mr. Albee's favorite among his plays. The play opened to rave reviews and was a great success and in many ways changed the face of American Theater.

The play concerns one night in the lives of a middle-aged New England college professor and his wife and a young couple who stop by for drinks and become entangled in a domestic drama they little bargained for. The director, Ray Kutos, a ten-year resident of the Coast, brings with him a background in theater and music. Kutos attended the University of North Carolina where he acted in and directed plays for the Play Makers Theater.

Among these were Inesco's "The Bald Soprano," Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutti" and Gian Carlo Menotti's "The Consul."

Kutos finished his musical training at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago where he sang with the Chicago Lyric Opera and directed the Chicago premier of Carlisle Floyd's "Slow Dusk," and undertook the role of Olin Blitch in Floyd's "Susannah," and coached with Norman Treigle, the originator of the role.

Kutos also coached with Olivier Rodin, nephew of the seminal French sculptor, August Rodin and appeared in Tennessee Williams' "The Eccentricities of a Nigthingale." This production starred Geraldine Page as Alma Winemuller the tragic heroin of the piece.

A long-time friend of Tennessee Williams, Kutos feels particularly at home in this repertoire and to that end directed the Bay St. Louis Little Theater's "Lord Byron's Love Letter" in 1993. Kutos last sang with the New Orleans Opera in Tosca, appearing with Shirley Verrette.

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? opens Jan. 6 at the Boardman Street Theater and beings at 7:30 Friday night, Saturday night, Jan. 7 and at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8. Tickets are $7.50.

JESUS IS ALIVE! REV. 1:18 - Rev. 22:17. Looking for something wonderful for Christmas? Try Jesus. Let Him fill your heart as Santa fills your stocking. He offers everyone a Divine Free Gift. You need to ask Him for this gift by Faith. "Lord Jesus...I have sinned. Forgive me of all my sins and come into my heart and save me right now...AMEN". It is a tremendous mystery. A Finished Eternal Transaction. His consuming purifying power, owner. The Dear Christ enters in. (John 1:12)
